SCUFFLE ENDS IN DEATH

FATAL WOUNDING OF BOY BY HIS PLAYMATE.

Raphael Aultman a Fugitive With Murder Charge Against Him. Probably an Accident.

Another fatality was added yesterday to what may be termed the epidemic of hemicide in this city. Ernest Langley, fifteen years old, of 29 Virginia avenue southeast, was the victim, and Raphael Aultman, a boy of the same tender age, was his assailant. Aultman made his escape immediately after the tragedy, and at a late hour this afternoon the police were still without a clue to his whereabouts. Deputy Coroner Glazebrook performed an autopsy on the body of Langley at the morgue this morning and ascertained that death was directly due to a stab wound of the heart, the blade of a penknife in Aultman's hands having penetrated the right wall of the vital organ. Murder is the charge which stands against the boy Aultman, and yet all stories told of the occurrence seem to indicate the fatality was largely the result of play between two comrades. As far as the police have been able to learn, and the story of an eye-witness of the tragedy affords basis for the claim, the two boys were in the midst of an imitation sparring match, dodging around a tree on the side-walk at New Jersey avenue and E street southeast, and striking at each other, when the fatal stabbing occurred. Account Given by Witness.

Mr. Bunting, foreman of a stable at 3d and Canal streets southwest, was passing the corner at the time, and he said one of the boys-evidently Aultman-had a nenpiece of brick as a weapon. Suddenly, Mr. round and the other stooped over, raised the fallen boy's head in his arms and tegan fanning him. Feeling sure that medical assistance would be required Mr. Bunting ran to a nearby store and telephoned for an ambulance. When he re turned to the corner Langley was lying in the street and Aultman had disappeared. A minute or two later P. L. Davis 8th street southwest drove past in a buggy and the wounded boy was placed in his vehicle and all possible speed made to the Providence Hospital. The physicians, however, pronounced life extinct, and Langley's body was taken to his home, whence was later transferred to the morgue. Coroner Nevitt shortly before noon today empaneled a jury to pass upon the evi-dence which will be adduced at an inquest to be held after the capture of Aultman. The jury consists of William Healy, P. P. Patrick, Joseph N. Alexander, Morris A. Tanger, William H. Bunch and Claude A. Gilman. After the jury viewed the body this morning it was transferred to the Langley home, and it is understood the funeral will be held Monday.

It is said Ernest Langley and his brother Bernie were almost the sole support of their parents. Both were employed at the grocery store of Proctor & Brother, on lst street southeast. Ernest Langley was sent out to deliver a package yesterday afternoon, and shortly before 3 o'clock he passed the Aultman home, 448 New Jersey avenue southeast. Raphael was sitting on the front steps whittling on a stick, the police say, and when called by his nickname he got up and joined Langley and they started down the street together. No tween them, though several persons have been found who, from a distance, saw the sparring match which Mr. Bunting described from a near view.

Following the disappearance of Aultman, and when the affair had been reported to the police of the fifth precinct and to head-quarters, it was stated the boy had been seen running in the direction of the Virginia avenue tunnel. Capt. Matthews of the fifth precinct set men to guard each end of the tunnel, and others to go through ore, but the rumor was found to be without foundation.

Was Seen in Depot.

Subsequently it was learned that Aultman had been seen, about an hour after the tragedy, in the Pennsylvania railroad passenger depot. A man who lives in the same neighborhood in Southeast Washington passed Aultman in the package room at the station, and spoke to him, but at that time the general alarm for Aultman's arrest had not gone forth. His mother said he had between $5 and $10 in his pockets, and it is assumed he succeeded in buying a ticket and getting out of the city on one of the early afternoon trains.

With this possibility in view the police have sent descriptions of Aultman to all cities and towns for a considerable radius, with the request that he be arrested and held for this jurisdiction. William Fretter, Aultman's stepfather, and his mother, with whom he lived at the New Jersey avenue address, have promised to aid the police

EXCURSIONS.

The fourth planked shad dinner of the season will be served at Marshall Hall tomorrow. Planked shad at this resort is one of the features of the Potomac river during the spring, and is one of the greatest treats offered by any resort around Washington. These dinners, which have been given by the management of this resort for these many seasons, have been enjoyed Bunting said, one of the boys cried aloud: by thousands of Washingtonians, and that "My God, I have killed him." And with they are still popular may be judged by the words one of the boys fell to the the large number of people who have taken the trip to the Hall for the last three Sundays. On these excursions every arrangement for the comfort and convenience of ladies is looked after by the officials of the company. The steamer Charles Macalester will leave 7th street wharf tomorrow,

Sunday, at 11 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Those who are hunting for a pleasant way in which to spend several hours to-morrow afternoon could do no better than to beard the big and speedy steamer St. Johns and enjoy an eighty-mile ride on the Potomac. The steamer will leave her wharf, foot of 7th street, at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and, after making a run down the river to about Clifton Beach, will turn and retrace her course to this city, where she will arrive about 8 p.m. The steamer is a big one and can easily carry 3,000 people, so there is no danger of her being at all crowded on the trip tomorrow, and there will be plenty of elbow room for all who wish to make the trip. Seated in the open air in an easy chair on the broad decks of the steamer, the pleasure-seeker can enjoy the picturesque scenery of the Potomac as the many historic and interesting points are passed, until the fresh and salt waters in the Potomac mingle. There the steamer will turn and start on her homeward journey. There is an excellent lunch counter on the steamer, but those who wish dinner can obtain it in the big dining room on the main deck of the steamer. These Sunday evening trips on the river will be continued throughout the month of May.

Tourists to Jamestown going via this city by water may make the trip by night or day via the Norfolk and Washington steamers. The opportunity to view the scenery along the historic Potomac, Chesabay and Hampton roads appeals to a large majority of travelers apparently, for the day steamers, sailing at 8 a.m. on the even dates of the month, have been well program. Lieut. Santelmann, by courtesy, led the children in their spirited singing of patronized. The daylight trips are com-pleted before nightfall, the steamer passing through the fleet of battleships anchored off the exposition at duck, and landing passengers at the fair pier. Stops are also made at Old Point Comfort as well as at Norfolk. Night boats leave daily at 6:30 p.m., landing directly at the exposition pier early the ensuing morning. Norfolk and Washington steamers were not built for temporary service, but are stanch, safe and speedy, having every convenience that can speedy, having every convenience that can subscribe to the comfort and welfare of the passengers. Convenient connections are made at Norfolk with Old Dominion liners for New York, and with Merchants and Miners' boats for Boston. Washington offices are located at the wharf, foot of 7th street, and at 705 14th street.

CHORUS BY SCHOOL PUPILS

REPETITION OF PROGRAM AT THE NATIONAL THEATER.

The audience which filled the New National Theater last evening for the third annual entertainment by a chorus of 500 public school children, under the auspices of the Washington Playground Association, and with the co-operation of the board of education, was delighted by the presentation of a classic program of music sung in a manner that held the attention from start to finish and brought forth the most enthusiastic applause. Miss Alys E. Bentley, director of the chorus, and James E. West, chairman of the festival committee, were the recipients of hearty congratulations upon the musical, social and financial success of the event.

There was no variation from the program as presented Thursday afternoon, but the children had become used to singing in a theater, before a large audience, and they even surpassed their work on that occa

As a result of the performance last night many persons interested in the develop-ment of music in the national capital and in the public schools expressed the wish that the chorus might be permanently or-ganized and continue its rehearsals from year to year, so that on public occasions. like an inauguration, it might take part.

Completely Fill the Stage. A beautiful picture was disclosed when the curtain was lifted and the children were discovered. They completely filled the stage. The little girls were dressed in white and the boys in black and each member of the chorus wore a red, white and blue badge. Miss Bentley occupied a little plat-form, which raised her to a height where she could be seen by all of the children, and they responded to her every gesture. The principal feature of the program last evening was the "Miserere," from Verdi's "Il Trovatore." The children sang this in a chorus arrangement, bringing out all four parts. They carried it through with confidence and apparent understanding, reaching the climax in splendid style, and aroused the enthusiasm of the audience to the highest pitch. The Handel, Beethoven and Rubinstal musical specific parts of the style of the st binstein numbers were also sung with feel-ing and expression.

There was much interest in "The Flag Goes By," which was sung for the first time in public by this chorus at the Thursday afternoon dress rehearsal and which was repeated last night. The music is by Harvey Worthington Loomis. When the festival chorus began to work on this number there was ber there was only one manuscript copy of the music in existence, and from this man uscript, through the courtesy of Mr. Loo-mis, the song was taught to the 500 children constituting the chorus. The music has since then been published.

Splendid Effect.

At the close of this number, the Marine Band, under the leadership of Lieut. Santelmann, played "The Star Spangled Banner." The theater was darkened and a great American flag, with lights playing upon it, was let down from the flies, presenting a splendid effect. Meanwhile the children and the audience arose and remained standing.

The program complete was as follows: The program complete was as follows:

"The Heavens Resound," Beethoven; "Blue
Danube Waltz," Strauss; "Wanderers'
Night Song," Rubenstein; "Sands o'Dee," Clay; "The Kerry Dance," Molloy; "The

"Miserere," Verdi; "He Shall Feed His

"America."

Besides these numbers there were covered.

led the children in their spirited singing of "America" to conclude the program. The way the chorus sang "Dixle" aroused tre-mendous enthusiasm, and the number had to be repeated several times. The accompanists were Miss Sallie Mason, Mrs. Frank Byram, Mrs. G. Harris White and Mr. Halstead Hoover.

The audience included many prominent society leaders, officials of the Washington Playground Association, members of the board of education and school officials, parents and friends of the children, and many of Washington's music lovers. Mrs. Bacon, wife of the assistant secretary of state, and Mrs. Cowles, sister of the President, occupied boxes with parties of friends.

Dedication of the New Notre Dame

Convent. Simple ceremonies marked the dedication of the new Notre Dame convent at North Capitol and K streets last Thursday morning. Though not an exceptionally large building, being designed solely for a community house, it is regarded as one of the best forms of mission style in this city.

Mgr. Diomede Falconio, the apostolic delegate to the United States, officiated at the ceremonies of dedication. He was as sisted by Father John Scully, S.J., of St. Aloysius Church, the chaplain of the convent, and four acolytes. Mgr. Falconio began the devotions with mass in the convent chapel at 6:30 o'clock a.m., which was attended only by the members of the community and those responsible for its construction, including the architect and builders. Following the mass, the new building was blessed and formally devoted to religious uses.

The papal delegate and those attending the ceremony were entertained at a breakfast, following the ceremonies.

The sister superior announces that a debt of $18,000 remains on the structure. The new building will not be occupied, it is stated, until next fall, as the sisters will soon go to Trinity College, near the Catholic University of America, to spend the summer months.

"I have had eczema for over fifteen years, and have tried all sorts of remedies to relieve me, but without avail. I stated my case to one of my friends and he recommended the Cuticura Reme-dies. I bought them with the thought that they would be unsuccessful, as with the others. But after using them for a few weeks I noticed to my surprise that the irritation and peeling of the skin gradually decreased, and finally, after using five cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, it disappeared entirely.
